

Can the child separate from parents/Carers?

Can the child dress and undress themselves?

Can the child independently use the toilet?

Can the child play and share with other children in a positive way?

Can the child deal with making mistakes and understand they won't always win?

Can the child take responsibility for their own actions understanding what's wrong & right?

Can the child communicate and interact with others successfully?

Can the child sit still for a short period for rhymes & stories?

Can the child recognise their name when written down?

Can the child recognise numbers in written form and able to count objects?

Can the child hold a pencil and make marks on paper?

Can the child recognise the alphabet and produce phonic sounds?

Is the child aware that books give us information as well as stories?

Is the child curious and happy to explore new activities or environments?